Who We Are

The Compassionate Friends (TCF) is a national nonprofit self-help organization that offers friendship, understanding and hope to bereaved parents, grandparents and siblings. There are no religious affiliations and no membership dues.

The mission of TCF is to assist families toward the positive resolution of grief following the death of a child of any age and to provide information to help others be supportive. The secret to TCF's success is simple: As seasoned grievers reach out to the newly bereaved, energy that has been directed inward begins to flow outward and both are helped to heal. The vision of TCF is that everyone who needs us will find us and everyone that finds us will be helped.

About Our Meetings...

The Lehigh Valley Chapter meets monthly on the 2nd Monday from 7 to 9 pm at Sacred Heart Hospital (2nd Flr. Conference Center), 4th & Chew Sts, Allentown. Free parking deck passes are available at the meeting.

Monthly meetings are open to all bereaved parents, grandparents and mature siblings (those old enough to understand the meeting discussions and not be upset by them). We currently do not have a sibling group, but Ryan's Tree (contact information is provided on the bottom of this page) offers bereavement groups for siblings ages 5 thru 18.

Meetings vary each month, from sharing, to guest speakers, to special presentations. Separate sharing sessions are offered to new members. Participation in group sharing is confidential and voluntary. It is our hope that being among other bereaved parents you may feel free to talk, cry and share your feelings, but it is okay to just come and listen too.

The chapter maintains an extensive free lending library of grief-related materials that is set up at meetings. Donations of grief related books are always welcome.

We invite you to bring a picture of your child to display at the meeting for their birth or anniversary month or at any time. We also welcome refreshments brought in honor of your child.

Butterfly Release

As the weather warms and we draw closer to the day of our Butterfly Release and Remembrance walk, we'd like to remind you to get your butterfly orders in as our supply of butterflies is limited to 500 (due to federal regulations). We'd also like to note, the release committee have worked hard to reorganize the event to make it enjoyable and memorable for all our participants and volunteers while focusing on the reason we all attend - to honor the memory of our loved ones. The most notable changes to the event will be that we moved the times of the event up 1 hour, we have streamlined the event program; refreshment selections have been narrowed; no vendor sales (due to park regulations) and raffle has been replaced with door prizes. This years event will feature Refreshment sales; Door Prizes; Messages to Heaven Boards; A DJ; Guest & Sibling Speakers and of The Remembrance Walk and Live Butterfly release

We rely on our volunteers to make this event happen and are in serious need to volunteers for this years event. To volunteer please call Brenda Solderitch @ 610-837-7375

In the Garden of Trees Stands a Willow

Author Unknown

A willow that weeps through the years,
Named aptly for heartache and sorrow
Each leaf represents one more tear.
With grace those leaves blow on soft. wind,
To remind us of our child gone away;

Yet reaches its branches toward Heaven,
With the promise we'll see them someday.
It stands in the midst of the storm tossed winds,
A tree with quiet beauty and grace,
Like our hearts, it survives
through (the worst) of it all,
And will til we see our Child's face,

In the garden of trees stands a willow tree, A willow that weeps through the years Just like our child, it's in God's hands, And like us, sheds countless tears.

I'll Always Be Your Dad

By Alan Pedersen

Years have come and gone and time has surely drifted by I've searched for any answer yet I'm left to wonder why The only thing I know for sure through the happy and the sad No matter what the circumstance I will always be your dad

Not a day goes by that I don't hold you in my heart
My love reaches far beyond this space we are apart
These empty arms remember all the good times that we had
I may be standing here alone
but I will always be your dad

Some won't understand
so I don't bother to explain
They look into my eyes
but they can only see the pain
Afraid to look too deep as they are blinded by the fear
If only they could know
a father's love won't disappear

So when this road gets lonely and the journey seems too hard And I get to feeling sorry that I didn't get a card If I close my eyes I can almost hear you say I love you and I miss you daddy ......Happy Fathers Day Blessings, Alan Pedersen

The Father's Grief

By David Pellegrin, TCF Honolulu, HI

At my second meeting of The Compassionate Friends about three years ago, one of the mothers said how nice it was to see a man attending, since "men grieve differently from women."

Her remark was no doubt meant to help put me at ease. I hadn't said a thing so far, and might have been intimidating in my silence. But it caught me off guard. What I was feeling after George's death was so absolute, so awful, how could it possibly come with any "differences"? Would one grieve differently for an infant than for an adolescent? For a son than for a daughter? Surely, grief was absolute for both mothers and fathers.

Over time I came to acknowledge the differences the well-meaning mother had in mind:

H Neither I nor the other men who occasionally attended talked much; the women talked freely.

H I sensed I was better at compartmentalizing my grief than the mothers, better at keeping a lid on it socially and at work.

H My male friends seemed less comfortable talking about George, bringing up his name or even looking at his pictures than female friends.

H I came to see how intensely I felt I had let my son down as his protector, the father's primary role.

Shortly after becoming editor of my chapter newsletter, I sent a copy to my friend Jack Knebel in California. Jack and his wife, Linda, had been involved with a Compassionate Friends chapter after the death of their daughter, Hollis. He replied, "It's good to see that a man is taking an active role in the group." Then he went on to write movingly about those male-female grieving differences. The rest of his letter, which touched me deeply, follows:

. . . Several years after Hollis died, Linda and I were being trained by Compassionate Friends to be

"buddies" for newly bereaved parents. One of the exercises was to list all the unhelpful things that others had said in trying to comfort us, so that we wouldn"t make the same mistakes. The other trainees, all women, made long lists, and did it with enthusiasm. When the lists were read aloud, they nodded knowingly at every entry and eventually hooted and howled with derision at the worst (some of which were pretty bad). When it came my turn, I held up an empty page and said:

"People may have said such things to me. I just don"t recall.

"What I do remember is that people tried to tell me how sad they were for us. I remember being told how much they loved Hollis and how much they cared about us. I remember one of my partners hugging me in the halls of my very stiff and proper law firm. I remember men who had never told me anything more personal than their reactions to a Giants" loss crying at our loss and their fears.

"You women are used to talking to each other about your emotions and about personal things. I wasn"t and my friends weren "t either. So the fact that we could do so was a great gift, and it wasn"t marred in the slightest by someone "s choice of words."

Now, the shell has been broken and I find it easier to talk about my emotions, my hopes and fears, about those things that really are important. And that for me was one of Hollis" greatest gifts.

I know that even after George's death, he is a major part of your life. My guess is that you're becoming more open to the gifts that he and those who care about you are able to give.

Yours, with compassion and friendship, Jack

Wish You Were Here

By Steve Tutt ~ TCF, Tyler, TX

You'd be nineteen if you were here But why you're gone still isn't clear.
Your things are still all in your room
As if you'd be returning soon.
Spongebob waits there by the door.
Your shoes are still there on the floor.

Your friends are all young women now. They're working jobs or college bound. Sometimes we see them and they say We miss her so, wish she had stayed.

Your boyfriend's in the Army too
And by the way, he still loves you.
You thought his love was not so true
And that some other girl he'd choose.
But near two years have passed on by
Still to your grave he goes to cry.

Your niece and nephews miss you too,
And talk of the things you used to do.
Your Mother's going to be alright
And doesn't cry so much at night.
She puts the flowers on your grave,
And scrapbook pictures tries to save.

And me, I'm still the same old Dad,
The same old routine like I had.
I work real hard to make a way
To pay some bills and pass the day.

I'm not as funny as before My world's not happy anymore. I don't let on the pain I feel But deep inside the hurt is real.

Time passes by year after year,
Life goes on with seldom a tear.
One wish I have, a wish so clear
My wish most of all, I wish you were here.

I sat & watched the waves come in & out.
I looked for you there, but you weren't about.
I saw a young child about your size,
And I thought it was you, till I looked in his eyes.
I heard a strange voice call your name,
And I thought for a second you were home again.
I went to the jetty where you used to fish;
I gazed at the stars and made a wish.
Then I closed my eyes and I heard you say,
I love you, Mommy,
but it can't be that way;

I can't can't be that way;
I can't come back to earth
as you know
But I will live within you wherever you go;
For I am with God in a place so divine
Where there is no pain,
no space and no time.

Then I opened my eyes and I walked away And I've known where you are since that day.

Penny Linehan ~ TCF, Morris Area, NJ

GRADUATION A TIME TO REMEMBER

I was driving down the road the other day, thinking of how the retail market makes any event an opportunity for revenue. Graduation seems to fall into that category, with cards and gifts for every Graduate. This time of year reminds me that my graduation from high school was a bittersweet time. Really, it was the first time I had "surpassed" my older brother, David, in anything significant. I turned the age that he was when he died, 18, in the beginning of my senior year of high school. That year was difficult for me, as I felt that I was getting to move past where he had been cut short. Graduation day was no exception. I was happy to be getting out of high school, and looking forward to that coming August when I would go to college. But why was I getting to do these things, and not David? What made me so special that I got to stay here and experience these things? I still am not quite sure of the answer to those questions.

Graduation from high school was really just the first of many events which I have gotten to experience that David never will. College graduation, my wedding, and the birth of my two children are examples. And for me, each event has been a bit bittersweet.

The good news is this: that while time does make it easier to bear day-to-day activities without your sibling, each major event in your life presents itself as a new opportunity to remember your brother or sister, as well. For me, figuring that out was a huge relief, as it meant that my fear of forgetting David was not something I needed to worry about any more. His memory is just as alive for me today, 15-1/2 years later, as it was when I took that walk across the stage to accept my high school diploma.

Amy Baker Ferry Heart of Florida TCF, Longwood, FL June 2004

REMINISCING

I thought about you today, As I bade farewell for school. I thought about you today, When I heard a certain song. I thought about you today, As the teacher passed the test. I thought about you today, When the kids jumped in the leaves. I thought about you today, as a stranger passed my way. I thought about you today, When I got drenched in the rain. I thought about you today, As I sat in church and prayed. I thought about you today, When I embraced an old friend. I thought about you today, As the day turned into night. I will think of you again, When I close my eyes and dream.

When Grief is New Reminders

by Mary E. TCF, Valley Forge, PA

Try not to imagine the future, take one day at a time. Allow time to cry, both with loved ones and alone. Don't shut others out from your thoughts and feelings. Share these difficult times. You may grow closer for it.

Be realistic with expectations for yourself, family, and friends., When a good day comes, relish it. Don't feel guilty and don't get discouraged because it doesn't last.

Take care of yourself, rest even if you don't sleep. Help your body to heal as well as your mind. Share your feelings with others at TCF meetings and let them share with you. You will find that as you begin caring about the pain of others, you will start to come out of your shell, a very healthy sign.

We need not walk alone. We are The Compassionate Friends. We reach out to each other with love, with understanding and with hope.

The children we mourn have died at all ages and from many different causes, but our love for them unites us. Your pain becomes my pain just as your hope becomes my hope.

We come together from all walks of life, from many different circumstances. We are a unique family because we represent many races and creeds and relationships. We are young, and we are old. Some of us are far along in our grief, but others still feel a grief so fresh and so intensely painful that we feel helpless and see no hope.

Some of us have found our faith to be a source for strength; while some of us are struggling to find answers. Some of us are angry, filled with guilt or in a deep depression; while others radiate an inner peace. But whatever pain we bring to this gathering of The Compassionate Friends, it is pain we will share just as we share with each other our love for the children who have died.

We are all seeking and struggling to build a future for ourselves, but we are committed to building that future together. We reach out to each other in love to share the pain as well as the joy, share the anger as well as the peace, share the faith as well as the doubts and help each other grieve as well as to grow.

We need not walk alone. We are The Compassionate Friends
